LADY!

Can you sew all day without fatigue? Sounds like an impossibility.. Yet there are many ladies in Bennington who can,

Also they turn out more work in 20 minutes than you can in 40.

These ladies are using Electric Sewing Machine Motors.

There is no sewing machine owner in Bennington rich enough to be able to afford to do without a sewing machine motor.

The Boston and Maine Railroad has placed in use its newly construct ed extension on the east bank of the Connecticut River running from a distance of 11 miles. Work on this extension of the Connecticut and Passumpsic division was started in April, 1912, under a contract with the Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins Company of Boston, and at present the westerly track has been fully completed and will be placed in service, while the grading and filling for the easterly track is completed and the work of laying the 85-pound rails with which this line is equipped will soon be start-line running from South Vt., to Keene, N. H., about two miles north of South Vernon in the town of Hinsdale on the New Hampshire side of the Conecticut River then runs along the east side of the river for about eight miles to a point about one mile south of Bratleboro, then across the newly con structed Connecticut River Bridge

o Brattleboro. This line has a maximum grade of 5-10 per cent and a maximum curvature of four degrees. To attain his low grade necessitated many extensive cuts as well as drilling and lasting large masses of solid rock. ,450,000 cubic yards of excavation vere taken out, of which 135,000 cubic yards were rock, and this amount was used for the necessary

In one cut alone, which was feet deep, 450,000 cubic yards of earth were taken out; and to make one fill alone, which was a mile long, necessitated the use of 500,000 cubic yards of filling. The peculiar winging course of the Connecticut River required in one section the ago, never to be removed. So it is building of a fill in the river 4,000

> Two large bridges on the new route were necessary, one spanning the Connecticut River and the other panning the Ashuelot River. The Connecticut River structure is feet long consisting of two 250-foot truss spans and five 80-foot spans. There are six piers located in the river and in two instances it was necessary to go -of water to provide proper foundations. There were over 2,000 tons of steel used in its construction. The Ashuelot River structure is 300 feet ong containing three girder spans. Automatic block signals have been nstalled for this entire line, thus providing safe operation of trains by nomatic signals from Springfield to Windsor. In the town of Hinsdale a new station has been erected which is to be known as Fort Hill. It is situated near the old location of the River Tavern and Ferry Cross ing of the Connecticut River. From the northerly end of the Connecticut River bridge a fill along the west side brings this road nearly up to the station at Brattleboro. For the present trains will run into Brattle boro over the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad, but station provements are now under way and it is expected that within a year a We are not an unknown Boston & Maine service and two tracks for the Central Vermont ser-

WOMEN THE MORE SAVAGE

Hark Back to Primal Things More

Than Man Does. London, July 1 .- A curious controersy is going on in The Daily Miror n regard to the question whether man is nearer savagery than man was started by the statement of an English author that the higher types of savages have embarras singly rich languages and are gifted talkers. If, he says, this is a marked attribute of savages then it is certainly also one of women, for, as far back as records carry, women can stand. For years the following have always been notorious talkers, statement from a Bennington resi-A doctor said in regard to the question: "A man may chat, but a all tests. woman only chatters. Savages chatter all day long, mostly about nothing. The higher type of savage is particularly rich in his language; so is the higher type of civilized You cannot restrain either type-both must have their Women are born talkers, and somewhat significant that girl babies usually speak much sooner than boy bables.

"That women are more children of man. The untutored savage weeps when an opportunity offers.' when he is sad and laughs when he ling influences. Women in their relaemotions show that they have not ad vanced as far from primitive ways as have men.

"Another way in which women show that they are less affected than men by so-called modern civilization is their greater ability to endure severe physical pain. Every loctor with any hospital experience will agree that women patients show greater stoicism in accepting excruclating pain than male patients. In this greater stolcism, as well as in the freer play, they give to the easily aroused emotions of vanity, pleasure, sorrow and jealousy, their native savagery has not kept Judge. pace with man's."

These are some of the points which are said to prove that woman has still much of the savage n her composition: Lack of self-restraint.

Parents-Teachers Association How ever Would Like More. The parent-Teacher association of Bennington now has a membership of 100 and the officers are very anxious that this be doubled. The dues, 60 cents a year, are within the reach of every father, mother and friend of the school children. The mothers ought to have a new interest in the fine High school building plans, and their co-operation is needed. This Association thanks the trustees of the Graded school and the citizens of Benning ton for the appropriation of $100 for much needed plumbing in present school building. Dues membership may be sent to Mrs. Jesse T. Carpenter, treasurer and to Mrs. E. B. Huling, president.
